MAY FRAME COMPROMISE FARM RELIEF BILL

PASSAGE BY THE HOUSE IS LOOKED FOR

MAY BE SO DESIGNED AS TO MEET APPROVAL OF PRES.
COOLIDGE

TO REPLACE McNARY-HAUGEN
BILL WITH EQUALIZA-
TION FEE

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 20.—Passage by the house of a compromise farm relief bill which President Coolidge will sign, instead of the disputed McNary-Haugen measure with its equalization fee, appears probably as a result of the last few days' developments.

It was predicted freely today that the house agriculture committee would report out a bill lacking the equalization fee to which the administration objects, and that a majority of McNary-Haugen bill supporters would vote for such a measure on the floor.

Maneuvered into the delicate position of standing for a measure that apparently has no chance of presidential approval, supporters of the McNary-Haugen bill are asking themselves whether it would not be better to work out a compromise that would mean some relief rather than get no legislation at all.

The revolt which started in a small way in the agriculture committee seemed today to be spreading despite efforts of farm leaders to hold their ranks in line.

A probable compromise is along the lines of the Curtis-Crisp bill, which is understood to have administration support. This would set up financing corporations for each crop having a surplus, with power to buy up this surplus in the open market and hold it for better prices.

To prevent deliberate creation of surpluses, the measure prohibits operation of the machinery for a second year surplus if that surplus is caused by increased acreage. The machinery would continue functioning if the second surplus resulted from natural beneficial conditions. The Curtis-Crisp bill was defeated in the house committee last session by only one vote.

The Farm Bureau Federation and other organizations favoring the McNary-Haugen bill will continue to support it, it is believed. Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the Farm Bureau, has declined to give way, pointing out he is powerless in the face of the organization's mandate.

Political observers today expressed the view that rejection of the McNary-Haugen bill by congress in favor of a compromise measure would help rather than hinder the presidential movement of ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, Illinois, who endorses the bill. They say it would produce a grievance and therefore an issue.

If the McNary-Haugen measure is dropped, some democrats will attack farm republicans on the ground that their action is governed by political expediency in this presidential year, it was learned today.

SCOTCH COLLIE IN THE COURTS

Minneapolis, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Not satisfied with the decision of Shep who selected the family of W. E. Brown as his owner, J. A. Freeman today promised further court action over ownership of the Scotch collie.

Presenting a scene similar to the famous historical case brought before King Solomon, two families went before Judge Levi M. Hall Thursday in municipal court here and claimed the dog.

Instead of having either family prove their claim, it was decided to give "Shep" a chance to select his owner.

R. H. Dubbert, dog fancier, deliberately stepped on one of Shep's paws and the dog, whimpering, went to Clara Brown, 14, hurriedly.

Judge Hall awarded the dog to the Browns and ordered Freeman to give the dog to that family before Monday.

Now Freeman, who says he raised Shep, intends to carry the case to the higher courts.

New York, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Patrolman William F. Parks has given blood twenty times to save the lives of hospital patients. Today he was grief stricken. His twenty-first donation of blood had failed to save his own son, Edward, 19 months old, who succumbed to pneumonia after a transfusion.

YESTERDAY VISITORS SWARMED ABOUT COMMITTEE
SESSIONS

By LOUIS J. HEATH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Jan. 20.—A spirit of life and animation gripped the Pan-American conference today in view of the decision for open sessions of the committee of meetings.

Yesterday, visitors in great numbers wandered through the various rooms where the committees were meeting. There were no seats for the spectators but they stood about, seemingly greatly interested in the proceedings.

Members of the press from three continents strolled about asking questions, which were readily answered. None of the visitors seemed to distrust the delegates.

Ambassador Pueyrredon of the Argentine delegation, watching the meetings and the visitors, said:

"We want the Americans to know everything about what we are doing here. There is life and animation in this conference. It is a fine omen."

There was a report that the committee on initiatives would hold closed sessions. Ambassador Perrydon denied this.

"If anybody closes any doors here, we will open them immediately," he said.

All but one of the committees were organized yesterday. That was the committee on treaties, conventions and resolutions. This committee will meet today and probably will complete its organization. In view of the rapidity in which the committees organized yesterday, it was predicted the delegates might conclude their labors much earlier than had been anticipated.

FIREMAN OVERCOME AT MILL CITY FIRE

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 20.—(UP)—One fireman was overcome and several score tenants of a downtown office building saved by volunteer workers and employees who kept the elevator running in a Minneapolis fire Thursday.

The fire was in the C. W. Davies stationery shop, damage to which was estimated at $30,000, but the rescues were made in an adjoining building tenanted largely by doctors.

The fireman overcome was Ernest Quist, found unconscious in the stationery shop. He was revived through use of a pulmotor.

ROSEMOUNT BUSINESS DISTRICT THREATENED BY FIRE TODAY

Rosemount, Minn., Jan. 21.—(UP)—Fire in the Basket Grocery Store and bank building early today threatened to wipe out the business district when flames were fanned by a 50-mile an hour gale. St. Paul firemen were called and concentrated their efforts on preventing spread of the fire.

Rosemount is 15 miles southwest of St. Paul.

WIND STORM IN OHIO RAN IN ZIG-ZAG COURSE

ALSO LAPPED INTO KENTUCKY, ACCOUNTABLE FOR ONE DEATH

30 TO 40 INJURED, PROPERTY
DAMAGE MAY RUN TO
$1,000,000

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 20.—(UP)—A terrific wind storm, which smashed over a 200-mile zig-zag course in Ohio and Kentucky, today had accounted for one death, injuries to between 30 and 40 persons, and property damage which may amount to $1,000,000.

At least a dozen cities were struck including Louisville and Cincinnati. The storm was a freak as it was neither a cyclone nor a tornado. Weather forecasters described it as a "severe squall" which drove straight along the earth at a terrific rate.

The one casualty was Richard Kruger, a salesman, killed at Washington Court House when the wind swept a pile of bricks into his motor car.

Throughout the entire Miami valley there were reports of injuries. At the Central hospital here 20 persons were received for treatment. Another 15 or 20 persons were injured in Louisville. Hamilton, O., reported several persons hurt there.

Property damage was most extensive in Cincinnati, Louisville and Hamilton. Signs were blown down. Trees were stripped over telephone and telegraph lines. "Windows were dashed in."

The damage in Cincinnati alone is estimated at upwards of $150,000 and reports from surrounding towns said considerable damage had been done.

The storm broke suddenly shortly after mid-day. There was a heavy sky when suddenly the wind increased.

The storm seemed to be general over this section of the country.

Inmate of State Reformatory Thought Burned to Death

Booneville, Mo., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Le Van St. James, 15, inmate of the state reformatory hospital here, was believed burned to death in a fire which destroyed the structure early today.

Six patients were in the hospital and only five were removed by firemen who reported the flames prevented them from reaching the bedside of St. James, who was ill with pneumonia. The hospital is a two-story brick structure. The blaze was believed to have started in the basement. It spread quickly to the first and second floors and soon the building was in ruins.

Inmates of the reformatory assisted firemen in keeping the blaze from spreading to other buildings.

THREE MINNESOTANS LOSE THEIR LIVES IN FLORIDA ACCIDENT

Panama City, Fla., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Workmen on the Dupont bridge across east sought to recover early today the bodies of seven men who were drowned yesterday when a steel hull protecting a pier under construction collapsed.

The victims were pinned helplessly under water and had no chance of escape.

The dead: E. O. Bates, St. Andrews, Fla.; C. O. Ozdoffer and Ed Sulner, both of Boylston, Minn.; Archie Welch, Eradine, Mich.; Andrew Hyovait, Alhita, Minn.; B. C. Turner, Panama City; A. A. Holden, address unknown.

THREE OCCUPANTS OF CAR NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Three occupants of a car narrowly escaped death here last night when the machine plowed through the railing of a railroad viaduct and dropped fifty feet to land on top of a freight car.

Samuel Ellis, 50, and his two sons, Claude, 18, and William, 25, occupants of the car, escaped with slight injuries.

SCRIPPS-HOWARD PAPERS SUPPORT HERBERT HOOVER

EDITORS OF 26 NEWSPAPERS
FAVORABLE TO HIS PRESI-

NEWSPAPERMEN WERE IN CON-FERENCE AT FRENCH LICK, INDIANA

French Lick, Ind., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Editors of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, numbering 26 papers published in all parts of the country, today voted to support Herbert Hoover for the presidency.

Governor Al Smith of New York, however, was their choice in case "a republican like Dawes and Lowden" were nominated by the republicans instead of Hoover.

The Scripps-Howard editors have been in conference here this week. They passed a resolution saying:

"After mature consideration, we are of the unanimous opinion that Herbert Hoover is the best qualified active candidate for the presidency put forward in either party by reason of his character, training, experience and cosmopolitan outlook on national and international problems. We endorse him as our choice for nomination and election."

"It is our informed opinion, coming as we do from all sections of this country, that Herbert Hoover among republicans everywhere is the preference of the rank and file. It is and will be our purpose to expose the selfish character of certain favorite sons and other insincere movements calculated to defeat the will of the people and hinder Hoover's nomination."

"Having regard for the character and attainments of Governor Alfred E. Smith and his record of achievement as it accords with the liberal and constructive editorial policies of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, we consider him a desirable candidate for the democratic nomination. As between Hoover and Smith, we will support Hoover. As between a republican like Dawes and Lowden and a democrat like Smith, we will support the democrat."

HICKMAN HAS HIGH FEVER

MOVE FLUID FROM SPINE
FOR SANITY TEST

Los Angeles, Jan. 20.—(UP)—William Edward Hickman, slayer of Marion Parker, developed a high fever today, following an operation to remove fluid from his spine in connection with tests being made to support his insanity defense.

Although Dr. Benjamin Blank, jail physician, said the illness was natural, Dr. Cecil Reynolds, famous alienist, declared yesterday that because of conditions under which the operation was performed it might have serious consequences.

REED RESOLUTION RECLARING
SMITH'S ELECTION TAINTED WITH FRAUD ADOPTED

SENATE THEREFORE DECLARES
ILLINOIS SEAT VACANT BY
61 TO 23 VOTE

Washington, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Appeal to the United States supreme court or re-election in Illinois appeared the only course left open to Frank L. Smith today in his fight for admission to the senate. His friends here said they did not know what his next move would be.

A resolution by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, chairman of the primary investigating committee, declaring Smith's election tainted with fraud and corruption and his seat therefore vacant, was adopted late yesterday by a senate vote of 61 to 23.

This overwhelming vote against Smith was held by some observers as forecasting possible similar action against Senator-elect William Vare of Pennsylvania, whose case will be taken up by the Reed investigating committee.

There is a difference between the two cases, since Vare's election was contested while Smith's was not, but both men have found the temper of the senate against them and have been blamed for using large "slush" funds.

Immediately before adopting the Reed resolution yesterday, the senate defeated, 56 to 27, a substitute resolution by Senator Deneen, republican, Illinois, proposing to admit Smith and try his case on its merits later.

Final action on the Smith case followed three days of debate, concluded by Reed himself, in which Smith's large campaign contributions and expenditures were steadily under fire.

By BERT M. DENBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Illinois republicans—headed by Gov. Len Small, Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago and Senator-elect Frank L. Smith—prepared today to begin their fight to send Smith to the congressional seat from which he was barred yesterday by the senate.

Preliminaries to the battle were to be drawn up in the republican ranks, with the first definite move set for September when the republican primaries are held. Smith declared he will become a candidate for the republican nomination to the senate at that time.

If successful in winning the nomination he will enter the general election in November, he said.

"If the senate had to bar me," Smith said some time ago (he made the statement to the United Press on condition that it would not be released until after the senate vote was taken), "they did it at the right time. There is a campaign coming on. I have a new set of tires for my car and I can start touring the state again without difficulty."

That Smith may take some action in the courts to dispute the senate's right to deny his credentials was considered a remote possibility. He believes so firmly that Illinois voters will back him against the senate that he prefers to submit the question to voters rather than courts.

He will not turn in his senate credentials to the governor and allow a successor to be appointed, pending the outcome of the fight, it was indicated. To do that, Illinois politicians believe, would be an admission that the campaign fund difficulties of Smith were justification for the senate's actions.

The credentials, legal authorities have decided, may remain in Smith's possession and cannot be revoked by the governor.

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 20.—(UP)—William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee left here shortly before 9 a. m. today in the monoplane Pride of Detroit, to search the coast northward for a trace of the missing bi-plane that took off from Daytona Beach Monday for New York carrying news reel films.

OIL MERGER OF SOUTH AND WEST COMPANIES

TEXAS CORPORATION TO AC-
QUIRE CALIFORNIA OR-GANIZATION

PROPERTIES AGGREGATING
$530,000.00 TO BE CON-
SOLIDATED

New York, Jan. 20.—(UP)—The Texas Corporation, one of the largest independent oil companies in the country, will acquire the California Petroleum Corporation in what is considered the most important oil merger in years.

Properties aggregating more than $530,000.00 will be consolidated.

Announcement of the merger was made in a joint statement issued by the two companies, in which they disclosed they had agreed to exchange stock of the Texas corporation for stock of the west coast company on the basis of one to two, respectively, and that the Texas corporation was to acquire 51 per cent of the California petroleum shares.

The merger will enable the Texas corporation to expand its operations in the far east and become a formidable competitor of the Standard Oil and Royal Dutch-Shell groups.

The latter companies have figured recently in a competitive battle for domination of the Indian market.

The chief purpose of the merger, so far as the Texas corporation was concerned, was to bolster its production on the Pacific Coast thus putting it in a better position to expand its activities in the far eastern market.

have decided, may remain in Smith's possession and cannot be revoked by the governor.

SENATOR REED'S ARGUMENTS GIVEN

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, 20.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri asked the senate yesterday to pierce a "smoke screen of technicalities" and adopt his resolution declaring vacant the seat of Senator-elect Smith of Illinois.

He said that friends of Smith, who was denied the senate oath because of his primary campaign contributions and expenditures, were raising the screen of "legal technicalities, sophistries and refinements to sanctify the frauds of the present and open the door to every trickster, bribe-giver, ballot-stuffer and corruptionist."

"Nothing has brought more shame upon the administration of justice than employment of technical quibbles to defeat the plain intention of the law," Reed said. "There has been presented here on behalf of Mr. Smith no argument based on the justice and merits of the case. No senator has dared assert that his conduct in seeking the election is free from grave reproach. They merely say he should be seated because he was elected."

"A majority vote in an election can not sanctify a fraud. It can not make black white. It can not transform evil into good. It can not change dishonesty into honesty."

"The cloak of a majority vote no more purges villainy or its iniquities than a coat of whitewash can transmute a sepulchre filled with the bones of dead men into a palace of pleasure."

STRONG WINDS REACH GALE PROPORTIONS

SENT MERCURY TUMBLING TO
SUB-ZERO TEMPERA-
TURES

SOME PERSONS INJURED, PROP-ERTY DAMAGE FROM WINDS

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Cold weather continued in the northwest today after strong winds which reached gale proportions sent the mercury tumbling from above freezing to sub-zero temperatures on Thursday.

Although no deaths were reported early today, a number of persons were injured and considerable property damage resulted from the winds which struck with sudden fury Thursday.

In some parts of Minnesota and North Dakota snow was piled into drifts on roads, causing delays in automobile traffic.

In the Twin Cities, several persons were reported slightly injured when signs were blown down.

The roof on a water tank of an eight story building in Minneapolis was ripped loose, and a section fell into one of the main streets. Miss Elsie Bibel was struck by part of the debris. Her injuries were not serious.

Many windows in stores and homes were shattered by the winds.

The front wall of a building which was under construction at Fergus Falls was blown down, causing injuries to Miss Cora Platon, 20. She suffered a fractured leg and broken hip.

SOUTHERN MINNESOTA HELD IN AN ICY GRIP

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 20.—Southern Minnesota today was held in the icy grip of the cold wave that yesterday swept down from the north.

The mercury tobogganed to sub-zero levels and strong northerly winds reached almost gale-like proportions. Drifting snows blocked highways and delayed trains. Weather forecasters could see no immediate relief.

Two degrees below zero was reported here and like temperatures were reported from other southern Minnesota cities.

COLD WIND SWEEPS CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A cold wind swept into Chicago overnight, carried on a high wind which did considerable damage in the suburban districts. Temperatures dropped 36 degrees in less than 24 hours.

The low of the night was 5 above zero from a high of 41 yesterday. Forecasts for today indicated still lower temperatures for the area.

The western part of Chicago suffered the greatest damage. A smokestack 100 feet tall was blown down, partially wrecking a power plant. Trees were uprooted, crashing into buildings. Many windows were broken.

Chimneys in various parts of the city were shattered. Trolley, electric light and telephone wires were torn down. A part of the south side was without lights for a time last night.

The wind reached a maximum velocity of 42 miles an hour. Only a few minor injuries were reported.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Battling a 63-mile gale which whipped the waters of Lake Michigan into waves 20 feet high, the lake steamer Alabama was forced to turn back when half way to Grand Haven, Mich., last night.

The steamer arrived here early this morning and Capt. J. T. Crawford said it would have been foolhardy to attempt to go farther.

The Alabama is an excursion boat of 2,626 tons. It carried 15 passengers and a crew of 25.

MAY FRAME COMPROMISE FARM RELIEF BILL

PASSAGE BY THE HOUSE IS LOOKED FOR

MEET APPROVAL OF PRES.
COOLIDGE

TO REPLACE McNARY-HAUGEN
BILL WITH EQUALIZA-
TION FEE

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 20.—Passage by the house of a compromise farm relief bill which President Coolidge will sign, instead of the disputed McNary-Haugen measure with its equalization fee, appears probably as a result of the last few days' developments.

It was predicted freely today that the house agriculture committee would report out a bill lacking the equalization fee to which the administration objects, and that a majority of McNary-Haugen bill supporters would vote for such a measure on the floor.

Maneuvered into the delicate position of standing for a measure that apparently has no chance of presidential approval, supporters of the McNary-Haugen bill are asking themselves whether it would not be better to work out a compromise that would mean some relief rather than get no legislation at all.

The revolt which started in a small way in the agriculture committee seemed today to be spreading despite efforts of farm leaders to hold their ranks in line.

A probable compromise is along the lines of the Curtis-Crisp bill, which is understood to have administration support. This would set up financing corporations for each crop having a surplus, with power to buy up this surplus in the open market and hold it for better prices.

To prevent deliberate creation of surpluses, the measure prohibits operation of the machinery for a second year surplus if that surplus is caused by increased acreage. The machinery would continue functioning if the second surplus resulted from natural beneficial conditions. The Curtis-Crisp bill was defeated in the house committee last session by only one vote.

The Farm Bureau Federation and other organizations favoring the McNary-Haugen bill will continue to support it, it is believed. Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the Farm Bureau, has declined to give way, pointing out he is powerless in the face of the organization's mandate.

Political observers today expressed the view that rejection of the McNary-Haugen bill by congress in favor of a compromise measure would help rather than hinder the presidential movement of ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, Illinois, who endorses the bill. They say it would produce a grievance and therefore an issue.

If the McNary-Haugen measure is dropped, some democrats will attack farm republicans on the ground that their action is governed by political expediency in this presidential year. It was learned today.

Washington, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Appeal to the United States supreme court or re-election in Illinois appeared the only course left open to Frank L. Smith today in his fight for admission to the senate. His friends here said they did not know what his next move would be.

A resolution by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, chairman of the primary investigating committee, declaring Smith's election tainted with fraud and corruption and his seat therefore vacant, was adopted late yesterday by a senate vote of 61 to 23.

This overwhelming vote against Smith was held by some observers as forecasting possible similar action against Senator-elect William Vare of Pennsylvania, whose case will be taken up by the Reed investigating committee.

There is a difference between the two cases, since Vare's election was contested while Smith's was not, but both men have found the temper of the senate against them and have been blamed for using large "slush" funds.

Immediately before adopting the Reed resolution yesterday, the senate defeated, 56 to 27, a substitute resolution by Senator Deneen, republican, Illinois, proposing to admit Smith and try his case on its merits later.

Final action on the Smith case followed three days of debate, concluded by Reed himself, in which Smith's large campaign contributions and expenditures were steadily under fire.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Illinois republicans—headed by Gov. Len Small, Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago and Senator-elect Frank L. Smith—prepared today to begin their fight to send Smith to the congressional seat from which he was barred yesterday by the senate.

Preliminaries to the battle were to be drawn up in the republican ranks, with the first definite move set for September when the republican primaries are held. Smith declared he will become a candidate for the republican nomination to the senate at that time.

If successful in winning the nomination he will enter the general election in November, he said.

"If the senate had to bar me," Smith said some time ago (he made the statement to the United Press on condition that it would not be released until after the senate vote was taken), "they did it at the right time. There is a campaign coming on. I have a new set of tires for my car and I can start touring the state again without difficulty."

That Smith may take some action in the courts to dispute the senate's right to deny his credentials was considered a remote possibility. He believes so firmly that Illinois voters will back him against the senate that he prefers to submit the question to voters rather than courts.

He will not turn in his senate credentials to the governor and allow a successor to be appointed, pending the outcome of the fight, it was indicated. To do that, Illinois politicians believe, would be an admission that the campaign fund difficulties of Smith were justification for the senate's actions.

The credentials, legal authorities

BROCK, SCHLEE IN SEARCH FOR MISSING AIRMAN

OIL MERGER OF SOUTH AND WEST COMPANIES

TEXAS CORPORATION TO AC-
QUIRE CALIFORNIA OR-
GANIZATION

PROPERTIES AGGREGATING
$530,000.00 TO BE CON-
SOLIDATED

New York, Jan. 20.—(UP)—The Texas Corporation, one of the largest independent oil companies in the country, will acquire the California Petroleum Corporation in what is considered the most important oil merger in years.

Properties aggregating more than $530,000,000 will be consolidated.

Announcement of the merger was made in a joint statement issued by the two companies, in which they disclosed they had agreed to exchange stock of the Texas corporation for stock of the west coast company on the basis of one to two, respectively, and that the Texas corporation was to acquire 51 per cent of the California petroleum shares.

The merger will enable the Texas corporation to expand its operations in the far east and become a formidable competitor of the Standard Oil and Royal Dutch-Shell groups.

The latter companies have figured recently in a competitive battle for domination of the Indian market.

The chief purpose of the merger, so far as the Texas corporation was concerned, was to bolster its production on the Pacific Coast thus putting it in a better position to expand its activities in the far eastern market.

have decided, may remain in Smith's possession and cannot be revoked by the governor.

SENATOR REED'S ARGUMENTS GIVEN

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, 20.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri asked the senate yesterday to pierce a "smoke screen of technicalities" and adopt his resolution declaring vacant the seat of Senator-elect Smith of Illinois.

He said that friends of Smith, who was denied the senate oath because of his primary campaign contributions and expenditures, were raising the screen of "legal technicalities, sophistries and refinements to sanctify the frauds of the present and open the door to every trickster, bribe-giver, ballot-stuffer and corruptionist."

"Nothing has brought more shame upon the administration of justice than employment of technical quibbles to defeat the plain intention of the law," Reed said. "There has been presented here on behalf of Mr. Smith no argument based on the justice and merits of the case."

"No senator has dared assert that his conduct in seeking the election is free from grave reproach. They merely say he should be seated because he was elected."

"A majority vote in an election can not sanctify a fraud. It can not make black white. It can not transform evil into good. It can not change dishonesty into honesty."

"The cloak of a majority vote no more purges villainy or its iniquities than a coat of whitewash can transmute a sepulchre filled with the bones of dead men into a palace of pleasure."

STRONG WINDS REACH GALE PROPORTIONS

SENT MERCURY TUMBLING TO
SUB-ZERO TEMPERA-
TURES

SOME PERSONS INJURED, PROP-ERTY DAMAGE FROM
WINDS

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Cold weather continued in the northwest today after strong winds which reached gale proportions sent the mercury tumbling from above freezing to sub-zero temperatures on Thursday.

Although no deaths were reported early today, a number of persons were injured and considerable property damage resulted from the winds which struck with sudden fury Thursday.

In some parts of Minnesota and North Dakota snow was piled into drifts on roads, causing delays in automobile traffic.

In the Twin Cities, several persons were reported slightly injured when signs were blown down.

The roof on a water tank of an eight story building in Minneapolis was ripped loose, and a section fell into one of the main streets. Miss Elsie Bibbel was struck by part of the debris. Her injuries were not serious.

Many windows in stores and homes were shattered by the winds.

The front wall of a building which was under construction at Fergus Falls was blown down, causing injuries to Miss Cora Pleton, 20. She suffered a fractured leg and broken hip.

SOUTHERN MINNESOTA HELD IN AN ICY GRIP

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 20.—Southern Minnesota today was held in the icy grip of the cold wave that yesterday swept down from the north.

The mercury bobbed again to sub-zero levels and strong northerly winds reached almost gale-like proportions. Drifting snows blocked highways and delayed trains. Weather forecasters could see no immediate relief.

Two degrees below zero was reported here and like temperatures were reported from other southern Minnesota cities.

COLD WIND SWEEPS CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A cold wind swept into Chicago overnight, carried on a high wind which did considerable damage in the suburban districts. Temperatures dropped 36 degrees in less than 24 hours.

The low of the night was 5 above zero from a high of 41 yesterday. Forecasts for today indicated still lower temperatures for the area.

The western part of Chicago suffered the greatest damage. A smokestack 100 feet tall was blown down, partially wrecking a power plant. Trees were uprooted, crashing into buildings. Many windows were broken.

Chimneys in various parts of the city were shattered. Trolley, electric light and telephone wires were torn down. A part of the south side was without lights for a time last night.

The wind reached a maximum velocity of 42 miles an hour. Only a few minor injuries were reported.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Battling a 63-mile gale which whipped the waters of Lake Michigan into waves 20 feet high, the lake steamer Alabama was forced to turn back when half way to Grand Haven, Mich., last night.

The steamer arrived here early this morning and Capt. J. T. Crawford said it would have been foolhardy to attempt to go farther.

The Alabama is an excursion boat of 2,626 tons. It carried 15 passengers and a crew of 25.

WHIPPET RECORDS IN LIGHT CAR FIELD

In presenting the perfected line of Whippets at new low prices that place it in direct competition with the lowest priced cars, executives of the Willys-Overland Company declare that never before in the history of the automobile industry—especially in the light four-cylinder field—has a car set such a long list of notable records as the Whippet. These records, made over a period of 18 months since the original presentation of this modern light car, cover every phase of test and in each instance the Whippet has set a high standard of performance.

In addition to the special tests that were made the Whippet also has established an unusual performance record in the hands of more than 150,000 owners who have proven the Whippet stamina, speed, power and economy of operation over a combined total of a half billion miles of travel.

Cannonball Baker drove a Whippet from coast to coast, a distance of 3,559 miles, averaging 43.28 miles to the gallon of fuel. This record was made under the official observation of the A. A. A.

Ed Hughes drove a Whippet from a point in Death Valley, 284 feet below sea level to a point in White Mountains, 13,150 feet above sea level, the highest point ever reached by any automobile on the Pacific coast.

Ten thousand persons saw a Whippet climb the trackless Stone Mountain near Atlanta, Ga.

In a speed run from Atlanta to Macon, Ga., a Whippet averaged 48.3 miles an hour.

Traveling in second gear only, a Whippet covered 135 miles in 4 hours, 3 minutes, averaging 33.33 miles an hour.

All-American Fullback Makes Appearance at Lyceum Theatre as "Treat"

Pictures of Minnesota's Triumphant March in Football Will be Shown

Oh you Herb. Oh Herb, that's the stuff, big boy. These and other exclamations have greeted Joesting wherever he has appeared on his theatre engagements for Finkelstein and Ruben, and no less will be the enthusiasm of the Braingerd public when the nation's idol appears at the Lyceum theatre tonight in the biggest attraction Wray Hiller has secured for his "Surprise Week."

It is generally known just how Braingerd will react to the all-American fullback for the public of this city and county feel that they have an interest in the life of the gridiron warrior. Joesting spent his entire summer last year as councillor at Camp Lincoln for boys at Hubert Lake and during that time made many friends in Braingerd.

Second to the great attraction of seeing and hearing Joesting will be the giving away of six autographed footballs by the Owatonna pile-driver. One fan remarked today that if he was lucky enough to win one of the balls he wouldn't trade it for $50.

Joesting will appear at the two shows tonight and fans are requested to come early for seats and avoid the rush. Joesting's appearance will be current with the showing of football pictures of the Minnesota team in action last year.

BRAINERD PIANIST WINNER IN CONTEST

Miss Alice Regina Johnson Given First Place in Kimball Hall Event

PLAYED C MINOR CONCERTO

Wins Right to Play With Chicago Symphony Orchestra on February 2

Miss Alice Regina Johnson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Johnson of this city, has just recently won first place in a contest held in Kimball Hall, Chicago.

She played the C minor concerto (first movement) by Rachmaninoff. As a reward she will play again with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at the mid-winter concert to be held in Orchestra Hall, Chicago on February 2, 1928.

Appears in Concert

Monday and Tuesday evening the American trio, consisting of violin, cello, and piano appeared before the Libertyville Musical society, at Libertyville, Ill.

The group of artists were: Alice Regina Johnson, pianist; Ruth Haroldson, violinist; Barbara Sneath, cellist.

Their performance was a musical treat and the audience showed its appreciation of their excellent work.

The Lake County Register of Saturday, Jan. 14, has this to say of them:

"Miss Johnson has appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and is well known as a teacher and in broadcasting work. Her performance Monday night more than fulfilled all expectations of her work."

"Miss Haroldson is an honor student of Jacques Gordon, concert master of the Chicago Symphony."

"Miss Sneath is an artist pupil of Hans Hess, renowned teacher of cello."

"The work of all three artists showed careful training and an appreciation and understanding of their selections."

TRUNK HIGHWAYS GENERALLY OPEN

Every mile of the Minnesota trunk highway system is open, the weekly condition report issued by the State Highway department today shows. In the portions of the state where snow was heaviest, many of the routes are icy and rutted and careful driving is advised. In some of the southern counties the thawing made the surface material soft and some of these routes are somewhat rough when frozen. A majority of the gravel roads, however, are good, while the paved roads are generally free from snow and ice.

Detailed reports of conditions on the so-called Babcock roads marked with the official yellow star follow, insofar as they refer to the Braingerd Lake Region:

T. H. No. 2 — Duluth, Braingerd, Wadena, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead—260 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—Wadena, open—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca and Braingerd—163 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 19—Braingerd, Walker and Cass Lake 93 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 27 — St. Cloud, Little Falls and Braingerd—62 miles—Paved.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO PRINTERS

O. O. McINTYRE writes a syndicated letter from his New York home which is given wide publicity. In several paragraphs of a recent letter, McIntyre pays a generous tribute to the printers. He says:

"One of these days when our ship makes port, old Charlie Driscoll and I are going to publish the ideal newspaper. It will be printed in a small town and tell the truth about everybody. We expect to get out as many as two issues and exit laughingly—ha, ha—in an armored automobile.

"The only newspaper job I ever held without feeling a temptation to blush on salary day was the first job. I trotted up and down the main street gathering local items for a weekly wage of $2. After doing the reportorial chores, I helped turn the big press wheel, wrapped the papers to be mailed and carried them in a clothes basket to the postoffice. Then I returned and distributed type until supper time. The evenings were practically my own.

"No man who has worked around a print shop can help having a warm liking for printers. It has occurred to me later in life how few people know printers. They were always closer to me than my brethren in the editorial rooms. If I got stuck on a bit of grammar, ran out of tobacco or found I couldn't hold out until pay day, I went to printer friends and they never disappointed.

"Wherever you find a first rate printer, you will find a philosopher. His self-education is often superior to that acquired in the average college. He is frequently a cynic, but underneath it all he's as soft as putty, and to me was always good for at least a dollar touch if he had it.

"I correspond today at long intervals with perhaps 20 different printers around the country. They all tell me my stuff is rotten and they never read it—but if a stranger told them that he would likely get a good cussing. I might add that in all my experience I never met a dishonest printer."

LAND O' LAKES CREAMERIES, INC., REPORT

A PRELIMINARY 1927 business report of the Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., as compiled by General Manager A. J. McGuire, shows the wonderful growth attained and the large volume of business overtopping the best records of 1926.

Butter sold in 1927 amounted to 84,412,139 pounds, while in 1926 the amount sold was 80,622,786 pounds. Sweet cream is now sold in cartons. In 1927 sweet cream sold on the eastern and southern markets totalled 470 cars or the equivalent of 4,000,000 pounds of butter. In 1926 sweet cream sold ran to 317 cars.

Powdered buttermilk is a comparatively new commercial product. In 1927 there was sold 2,821,045 pounds and in 1926 1,200,000 pounds. Cheese sold in 1927 totalled 1,695,168 pounds and in 1926, 635,455 pounds.

The total Land O' Lakes business for 1927 was $46,315,079.72 and in 1926 was $39,851,655.92, showing an increase in business of 1927 over 1926 of $6,463,423.80.

The percentage of Land O' Lakes 93 score butter for December of 1925 was 51 per cent, 1926 was 68 per cent and 1927 was 72 per cent, showing constant increase in quality of butter. The Farmers Cooperative Creamery of Brainerd is a member of the Land O' Lakes. Its business, amount of butter made and quality is also constantly increasing.

"THE OPEN ROAD" IN WINTER

DEEP SNOWS and impassable roads is a much more serious situation today than it was twenty-five years and even fifteen years back. Today every farmer is a dairyman, and if he isn't he wants to become one just as soon as he can. In the last fifteen years dairying has developed into an industry of large proportions and if the roads become impassable and untraversable because of a snow-drifted condition dairymen suffer heavy losses due to the fact that they are unable to get their dairy products (milk and cream) to market.

And they are not alone sufferers—the people—men, women and children in the cities and large centers suffer too, because they are unable to obtain the milk and cream so necessary in their daily lives. So that in order that this situation may be met both counties and townships must be fully equipped to keep the roads open whenever the emergency arises.—Shakopee Argus Tribune.

THOMPSON CAMPAIGN PRODUCED RESULTS

THERE are many people who look upon Mayor Thompson's campaign for stricter supervision of our school histories as a mere joke. An Associated Press dispatch from New York city shows one of the results of Thompson's campaign:

J. Lewis Coath, president of the Chicago board of education, who has been interviewing New York publishers, said he is convinced that they are willing to cooperate with Mayor Thompson of Chicago to keep everything except 100 per cent American histories out of the hands of Chicago school children.

He said that of 34 publishers he interviewed, 21 have consented to revise their texts.

THEY ARE LEAVING US

WE may not notice it so much at times, but outsiders coming to town miss immediately many of our prominent citizens who have been called away to that bourne from which no traveler returns.

J. F. Gould, state game and fish commissioner, in the opening of his address at the Rotarians called attention to absent faces, men whom he had met and shaken hands with four years ago when he addressed the same club.

Mr. Gould touchingly alluded to the late R. R. Wise, Mons Mahlum, S. F. Alderman, C. A. Albright and Charles D. Johnson.

THE Little Falls Daily Transcript states that "without a dissenting vote the city council of Brainerd has decided to bar all street carnivals from that city in the future. Wise move."

THE "city home" idea for the care of bedridden poor, as adopted by the Brainerd city council, is receiving much mention in the papers.

SYNOPSIS

Jeffrey Shore, a young architect driven to desperation by approaching blindness, meets Mickey Grogan, child of the slums, in a "soup-line" and they become friends. Mickey takes Jeffrey to Winifred Davidson who offers to help him and together they sketch plans for a group of factories Winifred's employer, Alexander Cabel, expects to build. But Jeffrey becomes despondent after leaving Winifred's apartment and confides to Mickey and Susan Dale, Mickey's orphaned playmate, that he plans to destroy the sketches. While Susan draws Jeffrey's attention, Mickey slips the sketches out of his pocket and steals a ride on the fire-carrier of a taxi to the home of Cabel.

Michael Aloysius Grogan looked exceedingly small as he stood in front of Alexander Cabel's mansion. He wasn't half as tall as the gate-post with a Florentine lamp on top of it. Mickey whistled in great awe. "Some dump!" he said. "It's as big as the jail." Mickey felt a little bit afraid of all this magnificence until he thought of Jeff. Then he set his lips firmly together, cleared his throat and marched up the steps to the broad veranda. Standing on top-toes, he managed to ring the bell.

The door was answered by the most magnificent human being that Mickey had ever seen. This god-like person was over six feet in height and proportionately broad. He wore scarlet breeches and silk stockings and there were gold decorations of braid over his elaborate jacket. "Gosh, Mr. Rita Towlers, himself," thought Mickey. Aloud, he said, "I'd like to—"

"No begging allowed here," snapped

"Boy, dat guy sure knows his onions."

ped the butler—for the magnificent man was the butler—none other. Before Mickey could say another word, the door had most discouragingly slammed in his face.

Mickey was furious and his dark eyes blazed. "Th' big hunk o' cheese!" he cried. "Just because he wears short pants an' silk stockings he thinks he kin high-hat me. I'll tear off his braid afore I'm two weeks with him!" He rang the bell again, and instantly crouched low, like a runner on the mark. The monumental and ornate butler again opened the door. Quick as a flash Mickey darted between the silk calves—like gates of Hercules—and into the hall.

Mickey had never been inside a more impressive place; not even the Grand Central Station seemed so gorgeous and awe-inspiring. The floor was black and white marble and there was a magnificent staircase winding away to unknown regions above that quite took Mickey's breath away. Rare tapestries were hung about the walls, and precious bits of tapestry adorned a console table. Mickey bowed before a Venus de Milo, and said, "Gosh, dat dame must 'a been 'trot de war. She wouldn't be no good to a man wit'out her arms an' all." But at that moment Mickey had to forget about Venus, for the gold and scarlet butler was bearing down upon him.

"Get out of here!" thundered the butler. He stretched out one of his braided arms, but Mickey evaded him with an eel-like cleverness. "Say, you belong out to Coney Island!" Mickey called derisively. "You belong in a side-show wit' da freaks!" He ducked away out of the butler's reach and thumbed his nose. "Co'mon, ya big bum! Ya look like a fire on its way to happen. Oh, ya big hunk o' cheese! Try an' catch me!" The butler awkwardly gave chase while Mickey ran in and out of statues and Louis XIV. chairs. Finally Mickey picked up a priceless bit of Sevres, and threatened to hurl it if the butler came an inch closer. "Oh, hortense! Try an' catch me!" cried Mickey. "Hortense, where did ya get them silk stockings?"

They were still at this game of tag when the dining-room door suddenly opened and Mr. Cabel came in. Instantly, the butler straightened to attention as though he were a horseman of the Guards without a horse. Striving to retain his dignity, he pointed at Mickey. "A youth of obviously pishian origin," explained the butler. "He is about to fling a $10,000 vase at my head and I am unable to stay him. I exceedingly regret the occasion, sir."

Mickey almost dropped the vase in his consternation. $10,000! He probably would never hold that much money in his hand again! He placed the vase tenderly on the table and stepped forward to within a few feet of Mr. Cabel. "I gotta sketch for yer new factory buildin', sir. My best friend, Jeff Shore done it. Winnie told him to. I seen him in a soup line, but he's a real swell guy, an' I tink Winnie an' hims gonna git spiced."

The butler made a wry face at this language. "What enunciation," he muttered. "What a devastation of His Majesty's English."

Cabel was both interested and amused. "You may go, Horace," he said to the butler. "I know de guy was a nut," said Mickey after the butler had gone. "Now," said Mr. Cabel. "You were talking of a certain Winnie. Winnie who?"

"Winnie Davidson. She works for ya. She's your chewin' gum expert—your stenog, your secretary."

"Quite right," Mr. Cabel's eyes began to twinkle. He sat down in one of the tall arm chairs placed about the hall. "Come here, my boy, and tell me all about it."

Mickey was delighted that Cabel should receive him so kindly. He drew forth Jeff's sketches, crumpled and dirty by this time, and gave them into Mr. Cabel's hands. "Jeff's sure a swell guy, but he ain't been gettin' de breaks. Ya see, his blinkers went on de bum."

"His blinkers?" "His lamps—his eyes. He's goin' blind. But he usta be a arktick, an' ya kin see he's still good. Can't ya, Mr. Cabel. Ain't them plans da kitten's earmuffs?"

"Ain't dey great? Ain't dey wonderful? Boy, dat guy sure knows his onions."

"His onions?" Cabel was more bewildered than ever. "Crooked says as how ya can't tell how good a man is by the looks o' him. Crooked is my best friend at The Dump. Say, Mr. Cabel, I tink ya ought git rid o' dat statcher dere, dat woman widout de arms. I could sell her fer ya just like she was new. De arms is gone, but dat wouldn't make much diff' rance."

Mr. Cabel studied Jeff's plans very carefully, holding them close and then pondering over them. "Say, these are good," he said with enthusiasm. "This fellow has the right idea." He studied the lines again, noting the saw-tooth effect which assured light and air in the work-rooms. "And quite original, too," murmured Mr. Cabel.

"Jeff was goin' to have it all done up purty 'fore he handed it over to ya, but he got discouraged 'cause he couldn't see what he was doin'," explained Mickey. He was trembling with his eagerness and excitement, and he looked tiny standing there in the great hall, tiny and wistful and altogether charming. His beautiful dark eyes yearned up at Mr. Cabel, and the man was instantly in love with this child of the streets.

"Do you live with this fellow—Jeff?" asked Mr. Cabel kindly. "Yea, sir. I'm seeing him over da rough spots. Wot da hell? A guy might as well be gen'rous wit' wot he's got."

Mr. Cabel laughed. He asked many more questions and Mickey told him everything, waxing eloquent as he pleaded Jeff's cause. In the end, he won Mr. Cabel's promise to help the young architect. "Bring your friend around to the office tomorrow morning," the manufacturer told the boy. "I think these plans are just what we want."

"Oh, say!" exclaimed Mickey. "You're the berries, you are Mr. Cabel. You're all straight up an' down!"

Mr. Cabel chuckled. "I hope so, Mickey. I hope so." And when the little boy would have gone away alone, into the night, Cabel rang for one of his servants and ordered the car. "Have the chauffeur take him home," he ordered. "Goodnight, Mickey," and the two shook hands gravely. But when Cabel withdrew his clasp, there was a five dollar bill tucked into the boy's small fingers.

Winnie had discovered Susan's presence in the trunk room with Jeff and had taken the little girl down to her room. Unlike Mickey who had looked on the bath-room as a chamber of torture, Susan, feminine-like, had evinced a great interest in the tub and the bath salts. "I want to smell pretty," said Susan. "I want to wash my skin until I nearly rub it off. Say, Winnie, kin I use your perfume? I want to smell like Mary Garden."

COLD WEATHER CONTINUES

THROUGHOUT NORTHWEST

High wind early today wrecked a new ski slide at Seidl's Lake, South St. Paul, where a district ski tournament was to have been conducted Sunday. The meet was called off.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(UP)—One death was attributed to the wind storm which swept Minnesota and the northwest Thursday.

Miss Cora Pletan, clerk at a Ferguson Falls store, who was internally injured when struck by timber from a false store front which blew down during the storm, died at a hospital there today.

WHAT IS TO BE THE DEMOCRATIC SLOGAN?

Washington, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Republicans are in disagreement over what should be the democratic campaign slogan.

After Senator Moses, (rep., N. H.) had facetiously suggested "Houston, Heflin and harmony" in private conversation with his colleagues, Senator Willis, (rep., Ohio) himself a presidential candidate, moved an amendment to make the slogan read:

"Houston, Heflin—and hell."

SENATOR L. P. JOHNSON MAY SEEK U. S. TOGA

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(UP)—State Senator L. P. Johnson, Ivanhoe, was brought into the picture today as a possibility for the republican nomination for U. S. Senator. Friends of the Lincoln county solon are said to be urging him to get into the race, but he has not yet given them much encouragement, it was learned.

Former Mayor Arthur E. Nelson, St. Paul and former Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, Minneapolis, already have filed for the nomination on the republican ticket.

FEDERAL TROOPS ENGAGE CATHOLIC REVOLUTIONISTS

Mexico City, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Federal troops defeated Catholic revolutionists in a battle of several hours along the Southern Pacific railway tracks and in tunnels, a dispatch from Mazatlan said today.

Several revolutionists were executed summarily when caught trying to burn a bridge, it was added. No details of casualties were given.

Heart's Resting Periods

The human heart rests between beats, according to an answered question in Liberty. It is explained that the actual contraction of the heart muscles takes about a tenth of a second. The heart rests until the next contraction, about eight-tenths of a second later.

Takes the "static" out of buying

There's a peculiar bug sweeping over the world today that has already sunk its teeth into millions.

Its name is Radio.

No one is immune. If it hasn't bitten you yet, your time will come. For some months you will lie absolutely helpless in its power. You may later recover from its effects sufficiently to go about your daily tasks and attend to your social duties, but you will never fully recover.

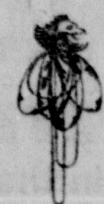

The experience is indescribably delightful and the pleasure never-ending—if—There's quite an "if" in radio.

We repeat, the pleasure is never-ending, if you get a good radio receiver and good accessories.

And you overcome the "if" by careful reading of radio advertising. Like everything else, good radio sets and accessories are the advertised ones. It doesn't pay to advertise the worthless.

Advertising will help you in radio as it helps you in selecting intrinsic value in everything else. You can rest assured that anything which is continuously advertised, whether it be a radio set or a can of asparagus, has stood the test.

Radio works best in the dark—but there's no need to buy in the dark.

Let the light of advertising show you the right road to radio satisfaction. Read advertising regularly

PAYS TRIBUTE TO PRINTERS

O. O. MCINTYRE writes a syndicated letter from his New York home which is given wide publicity. In several paragraphs of a recent letter, McIntyre pays a generous tribute to the printers. He says:

"One of these days when our ship makes port, old Charlie Driscoll and I are going to publish the ideal newspaper. It will be printed in a small town and tell the truth about everybody. We expect to get out as many as two issues and exit laughingly—ha, ha—in an armored automobile.

"The only newspaper job I ever held without feeling a temptation to blush on salary day was the first job. I trotted up and down the main street gathering local items for a weekly wage of $2. After doing the reportorial chores, I helped turn the big press wheel, wrapped the papers to be mailed and carried them in a clothes basket to the postoffice. Then I returned and distributed type until supper time. The evenings were practically my own.

"No man who has worked around a print shop can help having a warm liking for printers. It has occurred to me later in life how few people know printers. They were always closer to me than my brethren in the editorial rooms. If I got stuck on a bit of grammar, ran out of tobacco or found I couldn't hold out until pay day, I went to printer friends and they never disappointed.

"Wherever you find a first rate printer, you will find a philosopher. His self-education is often superior to that acquired in the average college. He is frequently a cynic, but underneath it all he's as soft as putty, and to me was always good for at least a dollar touch if he had it.

"I correspond today at long intervals with perhaps 20 different printers around the country. They all tell me my stuff is rotten and they never read it—but if a stranger told them that he would likely get a good cussing. I might add that in all my experience I never met a dishonest printer."

LAND O' LAKES CREAMERIES, INC., REPORT

A PRELIMINARY 1927 business report of the Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., as compiled by General Manager A. J. McGuire, shows the wonderful growth attained and the large volume of business overtopping the best records of 1926.

Butter sold in 1927 amounted to 84,412,139 pounds, while in 1926 the amount sold was 80,622,786 pounds. Sweet cream is now sold in carlots. In 1927 sweet cream sold on the eastern and southern markets totalled 470 cars or the equivalent of 4,000,000 pounds of butter. In 1926 sweet cream sold ran to 317 cars.

Powdered buttermilk is a comparatively new commercial product. In 1927 there was sold 2,821,045 pounds and in 1926 1,200,000 pounds. Cheese sold in 1927 totalled 1,695,168 pounds and in 1926, 635,455 pounds.

The total Land O' Lakes business for 1927 was $46,315,079.72 and in 1926 was $39,851,655.92, showing an increase in business of 1927 over 1926 of $6,463,423.80.

The percentage of Land O' Lakes 93 score butter for December of 1925 was 51 per cent, 1926 was 68 per cent and 1927 was 72 per cent, showing constant increase in quality of butter. The Farmers Cooperative Creamery of Brainerd is a member of the Land O' Lakes. Its business, amount of butter made and quality is also constantly increasing.

"THE OPEN ROAD" IN WINTER

DEEP snows and impassable roads is a much more serious situation today than it was twenty-five years and even fifteen years back. Today every farmer is a dairyman, and if he isn't he wants to become one just as soon as he can. In the last fifteen years dairying has developed into an industry of large proportions and if the roads become impassable and untraversable because of a snow-drifted condition dairymen suffer heavy losses due to the fact that they are unable to get their dairy products (milk and cream) to market.

And they are not alone sufferers—the people—men, women and children in the cities and large centers suffer too, because they are unable to obtain the milk and cream so necessary in their daily lives. So that in order that this situation may be met both counties and townships must be fully equipped to keep the roads open whenever the emergency arises.—Shakopee Argus Tribune.

THOMPSON CAMPAIGN PRODUCED RESULTS

THERE are many people who look upon Mayor Thompson's campaign for stricter supervision of our school histories as a mere joke. An Associated Press dispatch from New York city shows one of the results of Thompson's campaign:

J. Lewis Coath, president of the Chicago board of education, who has been interviewing New York publishers, said he is convinced that they are willing to cooperate with Mayor Thompson of Chicago to keep everything except 100 per cent American histories out of the hands of Chicago school children.

He said that of 34 publishers he interviewed, 21 have consented to revise their texts.

THEY ARE LEAVING US

WE may not notice it so much at times, but outsiders coming to town miss immediately many of our prominent citizens who have been called away to that bourne from which no traveler returns.

J. F. Gould, state game and fish commissioner, in the opening of his address at the Rotarians called attention to absent faces, men whom he had met and shaken hands with four years ago when he addressed the same club.

Mr. Gould touchingly alluded to the late R. R. Wise, Mons Mahlum, S. F. Alderman, C. A. Albright and Charles D. Johnson.

THE Little Falls Daily Transcript states that "without a dissenting vote the city council of Brainerd has decided to bar all street carnivals from that city in the future. Wise move."

THE "city home" idea for the care of bedridden poor, as adopted by the Brainerd city council, is receiving much mention in the papers.

SYNOPSIS

Jeffrey Shore, a young architect driven to desperation by approaching blindness, meets Mickey Grogan, child of the slums, in a "soup-line" and they become friends. Mickey takes Jeffrey to Winifred Davidson who offers to help him and together they sketch plans for a group of factories Winifred's employer, Alexander Cabel, expects to build. But Jeffrey becomes despondent after leaving Winifred's apartment and confides to Mickey and Susan Dale, Mickey's orphaned playmate, that he plans to destroy the sketches. While Susan draws Jeffrey's attention, Mickey slips the sketches out of his pocket and steals a ride on the tire-carrier of a taxi to the home of Cabel.

Michael Aloysious Grogan looked exceedingly small as he stood in front of Alexander Cabel's mansion. He wasn't half as tall as the gate-post with a Florine lamp on top of it. Mickey whistled in great awe. "Some Dump!" he said. "It's as big as the jail." Mickey felt a little bit afraid of all this magnificence until he thought of Jeff. Then he set his lips firmly together, cleared his throat and marched up the steps to the broad veranda. Standing on top-toe, he managed to ring the bell.

The door was answered by the most magnificent human being that Mickey had ever seen. This god-like person was over six feet in height and proportionately broad. He wore scarlet breeches and silk stockings and there were gold decorations of braid over his elaborate jacket. "Gosh, Mr. Ritz Towers, himself," thought Mickey. Aloud, he said, "I'd like to—"

"No begging allowed here," snapped the butler.

"Boy, dat guy sure knows his onions."

"Quite right," Mr. Cabel's eyes began to twinkle. He sat down in one of the tall arm chairs placed about the hall. "Come here, my boy, and tell me all about it."

Mickey was delighted that Cabel should receive him so kindly. He drew forth Jeff's sketches, crumpled and dirty by this time, and gave them into Mr. Cabel's hands. "Jeff's sure a swell guy, but he ain't been gettin' de breaks. Ya see, his blinkers went on de bum."

"His blinkers?"

"His lamps—his eyes. He's got 'em blind. But he usta be a arkteck, an' ya kin see he's still good. Can't ya, Mr. Cabel. Ain't them plans da kitten's earmuffs?"

"Kitten's earmuffs?"

"Ain't dey great? Ain't dey wonderful? Boy, dat guy sure knows his onions."

"His onions?" Cabel was more bewildered than ever.

"Crooked says as how ya can't tell how good a man is by the looks o' him. Crooked is my best friend at The Dump. Say, Mr. Cabel, I t'ink ya ought git rid o' dat statcher dere, dat woman widout de arms. I could sell her fer ya just like she was new. De arms is gone, but dat wouldn't make much diff' rance."

Mr. Cabel studied Jeff's plans very carefully, holding them close and then pondering over them. "Say, these are good," he said with enthusiasm. "This fellow has the right idea." He studied the lines again, noting the saw-tooth effect which assured light and air in the work-rooms. "And quite original, too," murmured Mr. Cabel.

"Jeff was goin' to have it all done up purty fore he handed it over to ya, but he got discouraged 'cause he couldn't see what he was doin'," explained Mickey. He was trembling with his eagerness and excitement, and he looked tiny standing there in the great hall, tiny and wistful and altogether charming. His beautiful dark eyes yearned up at Mr. Cabel, and the man was instantly in love with this child of the streets.

"Do you live with this fellow—Jeff?" asked Mr. Cabel kindly.

"Yes, sir. I'm seeing him over da rough spots. Wot da hell? A guy might as well be gen'rous wit' wot he's got."

Mr. Cabel laughed. He asked many more questions and Mickey told him everything, waxing eloquent as he pleaded Jeff's cause. In the end, he won Mr. Cabel's promise to help the young architect. "Bring your friend around to the office tomorrow morning," the manufacturer told the boy. "I think these plans are just what we want."

Mr. Cabel chuckled. "I hope so, Mickey. I hope so." And when the little boy would have gone away alone, into the night, Cabel rang for one of his servants and ordered the car. "Have the chauffeur take him home," he ordered. "Goodnight, Mickey," and the two shook hands gravely. But when Cabel withdrew his clasp, there was a five dollar bill tucked into the boy's small fingers.

Winnie had discovered Susan's presence in the trunk room with Jeff and had taken the little girl down to her room. Unlike Mickey who had looked on the bath-room as a chamber of torture, Susan, feminine-like, had evinced a great interest in the tub and the bath salts. "I want to smell pretty," said Susan. "I want to wash my skin until I nearly rub it off. Say, Winnie, kin I use your perfume? I want to smell like Mary Garden."

"His lamps—his eyes. He's got 'em blind. But he usta be a arkteck, an' ya kin see he's still good. Can't ya, Mr. Cabel. Ain't them plans da kitten's earmuffs?"

"Kitten's earmuffs?"

"Ain't dey great? Ain't dey wonderful? Boy, dat guy sure knows his onions."

"His onions?" Cabel was more bewildered than ever.

"Crooked says as how ya can't tell how good a man is by the looks o' him. Crooked is my best friend at The Dump. Say, Mr. Cabel, I t'ink ya ought git rid o' dat statcher dere, dat woman widout de arms. I could sell her fer ya just like she was new. De arms is gone, but dat wouldn't make much diff' rance."

Mr. Cabel studied Jeff's plans very carefully, holding them close and then pondering over them. "Say, these are good," he said with enthusiasm. "This fellow has the right idea." He studied the lines again, noting the saw-tooth effect which assured light and air in the work-rooms. "And quite original, too," murmured Mr. Cabel.

"Jeff was goin' to have it all done up purty fore he handed it over to ya, but he got discouraged 'cause he couldn't see what he was doin'," explained Mickey. He was trembling with his eagerness and excitement, and he looked tiny standing there in the great hall, tiny and wistful and altogether charming. His beautiful dark eyes yearned up at Mr. Cabel, and the man was instantly in love with this child of the streets.

"Do you live with this fellow—Jeff?" asked Mr. Cabel kindly.

"Yes, sir. I'm seeing him over da rough spots. Wot da hell? A guy might as well be gen'rous wit' wot he's got."

Mr. Cabel laughed. He asked many more questions and Mickey told him everything, waxing eloquent as he pleaded Jeff's cause. In the end, he won Mr. Cabel's promise to help the young architect. "Bring your friend around to the office tomorrow morning," the manufacturer told the boy. "I think these plans are just what we want."

"Oh, say!" exclaimed Mickey. "You're the berries, you are Mr. Cabel. You're all straight up an' down!"

Mr. Cabel chuckled. "I hope so, Mickey. I hope so." And when the little boy would have gone away alone, into the night, Cabel rang for one of his servants and ordered the car. "Have the chauffeur take him home," he ordered. "Goodnight, Mickey," and the two shook hands gravely. But when Cabel withdrew his clasp, there was a five dollar bill tucked into the boy's small fingers.

Winnie had discovered Susan's presence in the trunk room with Jeff and had taken the little girl down to her room. Unlike Mickey who had looked on the bath-room as a chamber of torture, Susan, feminine-like, had evinced a great interest in the tub and the bath salts. "I want to smell pretty," said Susan. "I want to wash my skin until I nearly rub it off. Say, Winnie, kin I use your perfume? I want to smell like Mary Garden."

"Boy, dat guy sure knows his onions."

"Quite right," Mr. Cabel's eyes began to twinkle. He sat down in one of the tall arm chairs placed about the hall. "Come here, my boy, and tell me all about it."

Mickey was delighted that Cabel should receive him so kindly. He drew forth Jeff's sketches, crumpled and dirty by this time, and gave them into Mr. Cabel's hands. "Jeff's sure a swell guy, but he ain't been gettin' de breaks. Ya see, his blinkers went on de bum."

"His blinkers?"

"His lamps—his eyes. He's got 'em blind. But he usta be a arkteck, an' ya kin see he's still good. Can't ya, Mr. Cabel. Ain't them plans da kitten's earmuffs?"

TOM HEENEY, JACK DELANEY MATCHED TO FIGHT MARCH 1

HEAVYWEIGHT SITUATION IN NEW ANGLE

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY FOR BOUT, SHARKEY AND RISCO, ON MARCH 12

LATEST PLAN TO MATCH WINNERS OF TWO BOUTS IN THE YANKEE STADIUM IN MAY

New York, Jan. — (UP) — The heavyweight situation took on a new angle today with Tom Heenev and Jack Delaney matched to fight in Madison Square Garden on March 1 and negotiations under way for a bout between Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko on March 12.

The latest plan is to match the winners of the two bouts at Yankee Stadium in May and send the survivor against Gene Tunney in June. Thus Jack Dempsey will be saved for the September bout, and all of the other heavyweights including Paulino Uzcudun, George Godfrey, Roberto Uberti, Jack Dorval, Knute Hansen are eliminated from consideration.

Announcing plans to break Tex Rickard's monopoly on the heavyweight situation, Humbert J. Fugazy called the present elimination tournament a "fistic farce" and a "burlesque on boxing."

Fugazy's plans call for a match between Godfrey and Hansen. He is endeavoring to get Luis Firpo or Victor Campolo, hard-hitting South Americans, to come here for a bout with Roberto Uberti, the winner to meet the victor of the Godfrey-Hansen bout.

The Delaney-Heenev bout was closed by John Chapman, new managing director of the Garden, after Tex Rickard had failed to satisfy Heenev's exorbitant financial demands.

Heenev's handlers returned to the Garden willing to sign for 25 percent of the receipts, because somebody set up a yell that Heenev was afraid of Delaney. This aroused Tom's ire and he says he'll show 'em who's afraid of who.

The Delaney-Heenev bout is scheduled for 15 rounds, a route that Joe Jacobs, Delaney's $50,000 manager, refused to allow Jack to travel with Risko, but quite acceptable in the case of Heenev.

The Rapier of the North is keeping himself actively engaged in the meantime. Tonight he fights Jack Humbeck, the Belgian, in Boston.

To start the week Delaney stopped Sully Montgomery, the Fort Worth, Texas, giant, in one punch at the St. Nicholas arena.

Left out of the new heavyweight tournament, Paulino promises to keep himself in the limelight by his barnstorming. The Basque leaves today for Mexico City, where he will meet Quinton Romero-Rojas on Jan. 29. Then he will go to Los Angeles to meet George Godfrey, the black menace who has been clamoring for recognition as a contender for the heavyweight title.

TEX RICKARD AT MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Tex Rickard arrived here from the north today and immediately registered at the same ocean front hotel where Gene Tunney had been staying. Definite word concerning the heavyweight champion's next fight "may be expected within the next few days," the promoter said.

LETHARGIC WELTERWEIGHT DIVISION

PROMISES TO FURNISH SOME FAST AND FURIOUS FISTICUFFS

ACE HUDKINS AND LEW TENDLER IN 10 ROUND BOUT TONIGHT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Jan. 20.—(UP)—The lethargic welterweight division promises to furnish some fast and furious fisticuffs tonight when Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, and Lew Tendler, Philadelphia veteran, meet in a scheduled 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden.

Two of the most colorful fighters in present day fistiana are likely to produce some excitement in a division in which the most important recent event was the refusal of the champion to fight because the promoters lacked a few thousand of raising the $60,000 guarantee.

Fight fans tore up a boxing ring in a Los Angeles ball park when Joe Dundee failed to appear for his bout with Ace Hudkins. The California boxing commission suspended Dundee and the New York commission followed suit, but neither body could undo the wrong that had been done the game little westerner.

Undismayed the Nebraska Wildcat has started clawing his way back toward another bout with Dundee. If he defeats Tendler, he will face Sergeant Sammy Baker who stopped him in his climb once before. A victory over Baker will bring Dundee within range, and there may be a new champion.

Hudkins has established himself along with Tommy Loughran, Jack Delaney and Leo Lonski as one of the most popular fighters of the day with New York fight fans.

Once Hudkins is in a ring with an opponent, something is going to happen. His tearing, rushing, lashing tactics are not unlike the animal from which he derives his nickname. For an opponent Hudkins will have a 29-year old veteran who has been fighting 14 years and knows every trick of the trade.

Tendler has staged an amazing comeback which has placed him back among the top-notchers of another division. The Philadelphia newsboy was a prominent contender for the lightweight championship in his prime, but Benny Leonard always stood between him and the 135-pound title.

Knocked out by Jack Zivic and outpointed by Nate Goldman, Tendler was regarded as through, but he came back to beat both boys and has forged steadily forward since.

After he had packed away his gloves and trunks, financial reverses caused Tendler to unpack them and go back into the ring to earn a living.

Hudkins is a 2 to 1 favorite because New York fans cannot visualize the aged Philadelphia southpaw weathering the attack of the youngster.

MEET TONIGHT IN CONFERENCE TILT AT B. H. S. GYM

LOCALS HOPE TO MAINTAIN PERFECT RECORD; VISITORS REPORTED STRONG

COACH WARREN KASCH TO PUT IN REGULAR SQUAD IN START OF BATTLE AT 8 P. M.

The Brainerd high school cagers were ready today to cope with any new plays or rushes the Little Falls aggregation might attempt in their attack upon the Brainerd meshes to night.

Coach Warren Kasch announced today that he expected no light competition from the boys down river. Everything pointed to a fast, close game, with Brainerd having an edge on their past record this season.

Brainerd is faced tonight with the proposition of maintaining their lead in the district conference and not marring their 1000 percentage.

Little Falls lost to Crosby by the count of 29 to 19 while Brainerd defeated the range squad in a lively contest here.

There will be no preliminary game. The main event will get under way at 8 o'clock.

The same team that defeated Crosby last week will take to the floor against the Little Falls team. Wise and LaCourse will be at their positions on the forward line, Welliver and Fuller on guard with Guin holding down the pivot position.

Smith or Bemidji will handle the whistle.

GRADE SCHOOL CAGE TEAMS TO PRACTICE ALL DAY TOMORROW

Brainerd grade school cage teams will open basketball practice in earnest tomorrow at the high school gymnasium in preparation for forthcoming games and the tournament at the close of the season.

Regulars on the high school squad will coach the various school teams with Coach Warren Kasch of the high school faculty supervising.

A schedule for practice tomorrow follows: Lincoln school, 10 a. m. to 11 a. m.; Harrison, 11 a. m. to 12 noon; Whittier, 1:30 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.; Lowell, 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

SPORTSMATTER BY FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Ace Hudkins of Nebraska, who recently sat in his corner in a California ring, waiting vainly for Joe Dundee to come to fight him for the welterweight championship, starts all over again tonight to make his way towards the title.

Hudkins meets Lew Tendler of Philadelphia, as good a trial horse as there is to be found in the 147-pound division, a veteran of memorable, gaudy battles with Benny Leonard in the latter's prime as lightweight king.

The Nebraska Wildcat will receive a real test at the capable hands of the Philadelphia Hebrew, but Ace should get by Lew without too much trouble. Then will come a bout with Sergeant Sammy Baker in February, and then, if Hudkins still survives this elimination process now so popular in fistic circles, he will be matched with Dundee once more.

The last time Hudkins was to have met the champion, the latter refused to enter the ring.

A California promoter had guaranteed Dundee $60,000 for the bout, but Joe found out at the last minute what they were going to use for money, and declined to appear.

When the time for the fight arrived, so did Hudkins. The Ace and his seconds climbed through the ropes and busied themselves with the familiar preliminaries, the taping of the hands, the choosing and donning of the gloves, the flexing of the leg muscles and the sucking of a bit of lemon.

But no one came to sit on the opposite stool. Hudkins became nervous, and so did the crowd. Finally the latter rose en masse, tore down the ring, broke the chairs and stormed the box office demanding its money back.

Safely barricaded in a hotel room, Dundee and his manager, Max Waxman, remained obdurate. They wanted to take the $60,000, but it had to be in something other than California promises.

So the boxing commission suspended everyone concerned, and that was the end of Hudkins' big opportunity.

Now opportunity gives one of those rare second knocks at the Wildcat's door.

Tex Rickard insists, however, that the Ace must show his ability by bowing over a few of the lesser contenders before being privileged to meet Dundee under the promoter's auspices. Tex pays the boys in real currency, and does his best to extract real fighting in return.

The last time Hudkins fought here, with Col. Lindbergh just back from a brief trip to Paris, looking on, Sergeant Sammy Baker beat the Wildcat to a pulp and flung aside the carcass.

Maybe the fact that "Lindy" came to see him was too much for Ace, but whatever caused it, he was terrible that night.

Tendler is 30 years old and has been fighting prominent professionals since 1913. He is one of the real veterans of the ring, and while he is past his prime is still a dangerous opponent.

Lew fought a draw with Joe Dundee, the present champion, in 1925.

ARRANGE GAME BETWEEN THE BRAINERD GIRLS AND MINNEAPOLIS TEAM FEB. 18

Deer Creek basketball team will play the Brainerd Y. M. C. A. team next Thursday evening at the local high school gym. Fans have been looking forward to this game as Deer Creek has a well known star on their team who was responsible for beating the "Y" on the Deer Creek floor at the beginning of the season. Merickel is the name of this man, whom many remember as one of the outstanding players on the University team two and three years ago. It is stated that many considered him as the best man to have played on the University squad in recent years. The game will be the more interesting because the "Y" team is now in trim to play Deer Creek on an even basis. Bill Zakariasen and Clifford Welsh, who joined the "Y" squad since the first of the year, contributed heavily to the defeat of Minneapolis by the "Y."

Another game of great interest has been scheduled for February 18 at Brainerd between the Girls' Independent team and Minneapolis. This game is to be played as a double-header when the "Y" plays again that evening. Tickets are to be on sale in the next few days.

Tickets are now available for the Deer Creek game.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY FOR BOUT, SHARKEY AND RISCO, ON MARCH 12

New York, Jan. — (UP) — The heavyweight situation took on a new angle today with Tom Heeney and Jack Delaney matched to fight in Madison Square Garden on March 1 and negotiations under way for a bout between Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko on March 12.

The Delaney-Heeney bout was closed by John Chapman, new managing director of the Garden, after Tex Rickard had failed to satisfy Heeney's exorbitant financial demands.

Heeney's handlers returned to the Garden willing to sign for 25 per cent of the receipts, because somebody set up a yell that Heeney was afraid of Delaney. This aroused Tom's ire and he says he'll show 'em who's afraid of who.

The Delaney-Heeney bout is scheduled for 15 rounds, a route that Joe Jacobs, Delaney's $50,000 manager, refused to allow Jack to travel with Risko, but quite acceptable in the case of Heeney.

The Rapier of the North is keeping himself actively engaged in the meantime. Tonight he fights Jack Humbeck, the Belgian, in Boston.

To start the week Delaney stopped Sully Montgomery, the Fort Worth, Texas, giant, in one punch at the St. Nicholas arena.

Left out of the new heavyweight tournament, Paolino promises to keep himself in the limelight by his barnstorming. The Basque leaves today for Mexico City, where he will meet Quinton Romero-Rojas on Jan. 29. Then he will go to Los Angeles to meet George Godfrey, the black menace who has been clamoring for recognition as a contender for the heavyweight title.

TEX RICKARD AT MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 20.—(UP)—Tex Rickard arrived here from the north today and immediately registered at the same ocean front hotel where Gene Tunney had been staying.

Definite word concerning the heavy-weight champion's next fight "may be expected within the next few days," the promoter said.

LETHARGIC WELTERWEIGHT DIVISION

PROMISES TO FURNISH SOME FAST AND FURIOUS FISTICUFFS

ACE HUDKINS AND LEW TENDLER IN 10 ROUND BOUT TONIGHT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Jan. 20.—(UP)—The lethargic welterweight division promises to furnish some fast and furious fisticuffs tonight when Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, and Lew Tendler, Philadelphia veteran, meet in a scheduled 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden.

Two of the most colorful fighters in present day fistiana are likely to produce some excitement in a division in which the most important recent event was the refusal of the champion to fight because the promoters lacked a few thousand of raising the $50,000 guarantee.

Fight fans tore up a boxing ring in a Los Angeles ball park when Joe Dundee failed to appear for his bout with Ace Hudkins. The California boxing commission suspended Dundee and the New York commission followed suit, but neither body could undo the wrong that had been done the game little westerner.

Undismayed the Nebraska Wildcat has started clawing his way back toward another bout with Dundee. If he defeats Tendler, he will face Sergeant Sammy Baker who stopped him in his climb once before. A victory over Baker will bring Dundee within range, and there may be a new champion.

Hudkins has established himself along with Tommy Loughran, Jack Delaney and Leo Lonski as one of the most popular fighters of the day with New York fight fans.

Once Hudkins is in a ring with an opponent, something is going to happen. His tearing, rushing, lashing tactics are not unlike the animal from which he derives his nickname.

For an opponent Hudkins will have a 29-year old veteran who has been fighting 14 years and knows every trick of the trade.

Tendler has staged an amazing comeback which has placed him back among the top-notchers of another division. The Philadelphia newsboy was a prominent contender for the lightweight championship in his prime, but Benny Leonard always stood between him and the 135-pound title.

Knocked out by Jack Zivic and outpointed by Nate Goldman, Tendler was regarded as through, but he came back to beat both boys and has forged steadily forward since.

After he had packed away his gloves and trunks, financial reverses caused Tendler to unpack them and go back into the ring to earn a living.

Hudkins is a 2 to 1 favorite because New York fans cannot visualize the aged Philadelphia southpaw gathering the attack of the youngster.

MEET TONIGHT IN CONFERENCE TILT AT B. H. S. GYM

LOCALS HOPE TO MAINTAIN PERFECT RECORD; VISITORS REPORTED STRONG

COACH WARREN KASCH TO PUT IN REGULAR SQUAD IN START OF BATTLE AT 8 P. M.

The Brainerd high school cagers were ready today to cope with any new plays or rushes the Little Falls aggregation might attempt in their attack upon the Brainerd meshes tonight.

Coach Warren Kasch announced today that he expected no light competition from the boys down river. Everything pointed to a fast, close game, with Brainerd having an edge on their past record this season.

Brainerd is faced tonight with the proposition of maintaining their lead in the district conference and not marring their 1000 percentage.

Little Falls lost to Crosby by the count of 29 to 19 while Brainerd defeated the range squad in a lively contest here.

There will be no preliminary game. The main event will get under way at 8 o'clock.

The same team that defeated Crosby last week will take to the floor against the Little Falls team. Wise and LaCourse will be at their positions on the forward line, Welliver and Fuller on guard with Guin holding down the pivot position.

Smith of Bemidji will handle the whistle.

GRADE SCHOOL CAGE TEAMS TO PRACTICE ALL DAY TOMORROW

Brainerd grade school cage teams will open basketball practice in earnest tomorrow at the high school gymnasium in preparation for forthcoming games and the tournament at the close of the season.

Regulars on the high school squad will coach the various school teams with Coach Warren Kasch of the high school faculty supervising.

A schedule for practice tomorrow follows: Lincoln school, 10 a. m. to 11 a. m.; Harrison, 11 a. m. to 12 noon; Whittier, 1:30 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.; Lowell, 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Englishman's Idea
The life belt commonly in use was designed by Admiral Ward of England.

SPORTSMATTER BY FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Ace Hudkins of Nebraska, who recently sat in his corner in a California ring, waiting vainly for Joe Dundee to come to fight him for the welter-weight championship, starts all over again tonight to make his way towards the title.

Hudkins meets Lew Tendler of Philadelphia, as good a trial horse as there is to be found in the 147-pound division, a veteran of memorable, gameling battles with Benny Leonard in the latter's prime as lightweight king.

The Nebraska Wildcat will receive a real test at the capable hands of the Philadelphia Hebrew, but Ace should get by Lew without too much trouble. Then will come a bout with Sergeant Sammy Baker in February, and then, if Hudkins still survives this elimination process now so popular in fistic circles, he will be matched with Dundee once more.

The last time Hudkins was to have met the champion, the latter refused to enter the ring.

A California promoter had guaranteed Dundee $50,000 for the bout, but Joe found out at the last minute what they were going to use for money, and declined to appear.

When the time for the fight arrived, so did Hudkins. The Ace and his seconds climbed through the ropes and busied themselves with the familiar preliminaries, the taping of the hands, the choosing and donning of the gloves, the flexing of the leg muscles and the sucking of a bit of lemon.

But no one came to sit on the opposite stool. Hudkins became nervous, and so did the crowd. Finally the latter rose en masse, tore down the ring, broke the chairs and stormed the box office demanding its money back.

Safely barricaded in a hotel room, Dundee and his manager, Maxy Waxman, remained obdurate. They wanted to take the $50,000, but it had to be in something other than California promises.

So the boxing commission suspended everyone concerned, and that was the end of Hudkins' big opportunity.

Now opportunity gives one of those rare second knocks at the Wildcat's door.

Tex Rickard insists, however, that the Ace must show his ability by bowling over a few of the lesser contenders before being privileged to meet Dundee under the promoter's auspices. Tex pays the boys in real currency, and does his best to extract real fighting in return.

The last time Hudkins fought here, with Col. Lindbergh just back from a brief trip to Paris, looking on, Sergeant Sammy Baker beat the Wildcat to a pulp and flung aside the carcass.

Maybe the fact that "Lindy" came to see him was too much for Ace, but whatever caused it, he was terrible that night.

Tendler is 30 years old and has been fighting prominent professionals since 1913. He is one of the real veterans of the ring, and while he is past his prime is still a dangerous opponent.

Lew fought a draw with Joe Dundee, the present champion, in 1925.

'Y' PREPARES FOR DEER CREEK SQUAD HERE JANUARY 26

MERICKEL, FORMER UNIVERSITY STAR CAGER, TO LEAD ATTACK ON LOCALS

ARRANGE GAME BETWEEN THE BRAINERD GIRLS AND MINNEAPOLIS TEAM FEB. 18

Deer Creek basketball team will play the Brainerd Y. M. C. A. team next Thursday evening at the local high school gym. Fans have been looking forward to this game as Deer Creek has a well known star on their team who was responsible for beating the "Y" on the Deer Creek floor at the beginning of the season.

Merickel is the name of this man, whom many remember as one of the outstanding players on the University team two and three years ago.

It is stated that many considered him as the best man to have played on the University squad in recent years. The game will be the more interesting because the "Y" team is now in trim to play Deer Creek on an even basis. Bill Zakariassen and Clifford Welsh, who joined the "Y" squad since the first of the year, contributed heavily to the defeat of Minneapolis by the "Y."

The Deer Creek game is scheduled for 9 o'clock, a preliminary will be played first between the Comets and the Hi-Y at 8:30. The Comets' record of a win is still unbroken. The Hi-Y has added new strength, however, and will give the Comets a real battle.

The "Y" team now has plenty of games scheduled for the remainder of the season ending with the State Tournament at Duluth the first week in April.

Another game of great interest has been scheduled for February 18 at Brainerd between the Girls' Independent team and Minneapolis. This game is to be played as a double-header when the "Y" plays again that evening. Tickets are to be on sale in the next few days.

Tickets are now available for the Deer Creek game.

MUCH MARRIED GROOM LOSES SIXTH BRIDE

WAS BRIDEGROOM 2 HOURS AND THEN HIS BRIDE FLED WITH HER FATHER

CHRONOLOGICAL RECORD OF WEDDINGS AND DURATION OF PERIODS MARRIED LIFE

New York, Jan. 20.—(UP)—A bridegroom of two hours—the sixth time he has been a bridegroom—to-day awaited the return of his bride who was taken from him Wednesday night by her father.

Last summer, John Prittle, 43, Nacodoches county, Texas, was at Mayo Brothers' sanitarium, Rochester, Minn., and there met Mrs. Alice Kippinger, of Trenton, N. J. Their romance budded in the hospital.

Prittle came east, met the family of the woman—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Toft of Trenton—and a marriage was planned. Yesterday afternoon Prittle took out his marriage license but had to admit to the license clerk he had been married five times previously. The other dates were: 1912, marriage lasting three weeks; 1914, lasting 15 months; 1920, lasting 18 months; 1923, lasting two and a half years, and 1926, lasting eight months.

Newspapermen told Toft. Toft called his daughter—but only after she was married.

Mrs. Prittle urged her husband to leave her alone with her father and Prittle did for two hours. When he returned to the hotel where he and his bride were honeymooning, the bride and her father were gone.

Washington, Jan. 20.—(UP)—By unanimous consent the senate today took up for consideration President Coolidge's plan for a commission investigation of the S-4 submarine disaster.

BLAME DESTROYER FOR SUB ACCIDENT

Boston, Jan. 20.—(UP)—Responsibility in the S-4 disaster was placed on the crew of the coast guard destroyer Paulding by Lieutenant Commander Thomas J. Doyle, counsel for the personnel of the submarine, in his closing arguments before the naval court of inquiry here today.

Doyle accused the Paulding's men of having made a wrong maneuver in turning to the right just before the collision which sent the submarine to the bottom with a loss of forty lives.

No, very hard water

THE pots and pans weren't very greasy. But the water was hard. It mixed with the soap, and formed scum! How could pots and pans get really clean in that? They just had to stay greasy!

That was before Melo's time. Now hard water is hard no longer. A dash of Melo is added, and the water is just as soft as rain water. Dirty ring? Scum? Grease? All gone. Pots and pans? Shiny and gleaming! You should try Melo. Get it today at your grocer's.

The state yesterday presented no affidavit disputing the affidavit of Dr. J. A. Thabes in regard to P. J. Long's condition and the court held that in view of the fact that the state could not dispute the facts set out in Dr. Thabes' affidavit, Long was entitled as a matter of right to a continuance of the trial.

P. J. Long is at present a patient at the St. Joseph's hospital suffering from acute stages of diabetes while his wife is also under care at the same hospital for thyroid trouble.

P. J. Long, state legislator is under indictment by the grand jury on the charges of receiving stolen property from Almon H. Proctor, cashier of the First National bank of Iron-ton and "being an accessory after the fact to a felony."

Proctor charged with robbery in the first degree. The trial will open at the district court Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Examination of jurors will fill the majority of the first day. ### DR. JOHNSON MEYERS TO SPEAK

Will Deliver Address at First Baptist Church on Tuesday Evening, January 24

The coming of Dr. Johnson Meyers to fill an engagement with the First Baptist church on Tuesday evening, January 24, is an event of considerable importance. He is the First Vice President of the entire Northern Baptist Convention, with a constituency of one and a half million. His large understanding of world conditions make him an authority on the question of Foreign and Home Missions.

The history of the Immanuel Baptist church in Chicago which he has served as pastor for over thirty years is one of the most interesting of that of any church in the country. Originally in a section of the city composed of residences, with the growth of the city it became a part of the business district. When nearly all of the other churches changed their location, through the influence of Dr. Meyers this church remained and changed its type of ministry becoming one of the first institutional churches in the country.

The church now has a large employment bureau; a beautifully equipped dining room where meals are served at a minimum cost to the poor, and vocational training and Americanization classes of all kinds. It also has seven missions which are functioning in different parts of the city.

Mrs. R. E. Cody of this city was a worker for over six years in the Sunday school department of this church. Being intimately acquainted with his work she considers him to be one of the foremost of American preachers.

AVERAGE COW IS "STAR BOARDER"

The average cow of the 330,000 in the United States' cow-testing associations is a "star boarder," and not just a "boarder cow," according to Dr. C. W. Larson, chief of the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture. She returns an income over the cost of her feed of approximately twice that returned by the average cow of the country, explained Doctor Larson when outlining a program for increasing production of milk at reduced costs.

"Although the annual consumption of milk per person grew from 43 gallons in 1920 to 55.3 gallons in 1925, Americans still are almost 50 per cent below the minimum consumption declared desirable by those who know. The average cow-testing association animal produces 7,500 pounds of milk per year, as against 4,500 pounds given by the country's average cow."

"High producing cows are economical in the use of feed. A tabulation of more than 100,000 individual cow records shows that cows producing 9,000 pounds of milk per year did not eat twice as much as cows that produced 4,500 pounds. They ate approximately 40 per cent more feed in dollars' worth of feed per cow to produce twice as much milk and butter. Cows in the 9,000 pound production class ate only about 40 per cent more digestible nutrients than cows that produced half as much."

Successful dairymen everywhere resort to correctly compounded feeding mixtures to obtain the high milk yields Doctor Larson described. For cows on pasture a much-used ration is ground oats and barley or hominy, 200 pounds each, and wheat bran and linseed meal, 100 pounds each, 1 pound fed for each 4 or 5 pounds of milk. Another popular ration is ground oats, 400 pounds, barley or hominy, 200 pounds and wheat bran and linseed meal, 200 pounds each, fed in the same way.

Feed, Breed and Weed Cows, Says an Expert

The time-worn slogan for the dairy farmer, "Feed, breed and weed," deserves to be called to mind at the beginning of a new year, for upon these three principles depends the degree of success to be attained with dairy cows, says J. P. LaMaster, chief of dairying, Clemson college.

At present a good spread between feed prices and the price of dairy products makes it pay to feed liberally, using as much home-grown and locally produced feeds as possible.

Only registered bulls from high producing ancestry should be used in any herd. Do not waste time and money raising the daughters of scrub and grade bulls even though these daughters are out of good cows. Remember that each calf gets half of its inheritance from each parent.

While breeding and feeding determine the profit or loss of the individual, the herd's ledger balance must depend on elimination of those cows so poorly endowed with dairy blood that good care and feeding cannot make them profitable.

Stanchions for Calves Very Handy in Feeding

Feeding young dairy calves without stanchions is almost as unsatisfactory as trying to milk cows without having proper stables. Stanchions for the calves may be made very much like the ordinary rigid stanchions for cows, except smaller. A feed trough should be placed in front, with divisions to keep the feed for each calf separate. When feeding time comes, the calves are put in the stanchions and a pail of milk is set in the trough for each calf. After the calves have finished drinking the milk, the proper amount of grain is put in the trough and the calves are allowed to remain until they have eaten their portion. This will usually prevent the calves from acquiring the habit of sucking each other.

Calf stanchions are usually made from 33 to 42 inches high and 28 inches from center to center. A space of 4 1/2 inches is approximately correct for the neck.

Calves in Winter

Calves which are dropped during the winter and early spring should have warmer quarters than the ordinary shed will provide. It will pay to partially close up one end of the shed, leaving spaces in the partition for the calves to enter. These quarters for the calves should be kept well bedded. The calves will begin to eat grain after they are a few weeks old and it is usually profitable to provide a creep where grain may be supplied.

Removing Warts

Warts on cows' teats can be greatly benefited by smearing them with olive oil several times a day. This treatment will likely remove most of them. It will also relieve the pain so that milking can be done more satisfactorily. Those warts that are not removed by this treatment can be cut off with a pair of sharp scissors and the sore touched with a stick of caustic potash. Removing warts by cutting them off should only be done when the cow is dry.

Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH

Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

Is He Sarcastic?

promptly and the

The ability to sting with the tongue for mere love of taunting is seen in writing that is exceptionally angular and has such pronounced keys as y and f loops pointed—wasp-like.

T bars will also have a sharp point to the right. When such point is seen in writing that has many rounded letters it means simply that the writer is easily discouraged and loses interest in things readily.

T bars that point down at the right and tap-roots, parts of the letters that run down toward the line below, both indicate the sarcastic writer.

Extremely heavy lines in the writing are signs of temper, and, of course, when temper rules, we must expect to find a sharp cutting tongue.

Then the t bar that is pointed both at the beginning and end with a slight curve toward the top of the page, like an inverted bowl, tells of a writer who is unappreciative of others and hurts them without thought.

Terminals that turn down or back underneath are accurate signs of the person who hurts others easily.

Note—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied. (Copyright.)

Trees get part of their water supply in liquid or gaseous form, directly from the air, says Nature Magazine. The rest is pumped up from the soil, but consists of water that was, at some earlier stage in its history, condensed out of the atmosphere.

Annoying Night Coughs

Stopped Almost Instantly
Very frequently adults and children, especially children, have spells of night coughing due to bronchial irritations or while suffering from colds. These coughing spells, if not quickly checked, are very injurious to the health.

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine, much better than patent medicines and cough syrups, acts on a different principle, relieves the irritation and stops the cough within 15 minutes or money back. Contains no chloroform, dope or other harmful drugs. Pleasant tasting and safe. 35¢, 60¢ and $1. Ask for Thoxine. Sold by Skauge Drug Co. and all good drug stores.—Adv.

Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH

Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

Is He Sarcastic?

The ability to sting with the tongue for mere love of taunting is seen in writing that is exceptionally angular and has such pronounced keys as y and f loops pointed—wasp-like.

T bars will also have a sharp point to the right. When such point is seen in writing that has many rounded letters it means simply that the writer is easily discouraged and loses interest in things readily.

T bars that point down at the right and tap-roots, parts of the letters that run down toward the line below, both indicate the sarcastic writer.

Extremely heavy lines in the writing are signs of temper, and, of course, when temper rules, we must expect to find a sharp cutting tongue.

Then the t bar that is pointed both at the beginning and end with a slight curve toward the top of the page, like an inverted bowl, tells of a writer who is unappreciative of others and hurts them without thought.

Terminals that turn down or back underneath are accurate signs of the person who hurts others easily.

Note—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied. (Copyright.)

Trees Pump Water

Trees get part of their water supply in liquid or gaseous form, directly from the air, says Nature Magazine. The rest is pumped up from the soil, but consists of water that was, at some earlier stage in its history, condensed out of the atmosphere.

Announcing

Night Coughs

Stopped Almost Instantly

Very frequently adults and children, especially children, have spells of night coughing due to bronchial irritations or while suffering from colds. These coughing spells, if not quickly checked, are very injurious to the health.

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine, much better than patent medicines and cough syrups, acts on a different principle, relieves the irritation and stops the cough within 15 minutes or money back. Contains no chloroform, dope or other harmful drugs. Pleasant tasting and safe. 35c, 60c and $1. Ask for Thoxine. Sold by Skaggs Drug Co. and all good drug stores. —Adv.

Love in a Pawnshop

By JANE OSBORNE

EARLY in his college days Harris had acquired the looking into pawnshop window as a newly initiated member of Beta Beta fraternity, he had with admiring interest to the classman's account of having seen a Beta Beta pin in the broker's window, and straight into the shop to see the sacred emblem from longer in its disgraceful place. The time Denslow felt an impetuous loyalty to the to which he had recently been ed. He had hoped some able to perform the knightly duty of buying a Beta Beta pin from the shop.

And now Denslow Harris, pin, never wore his pin, in fact, actually forgotten where he came of it. Still, as if by a sure thing, he looked in pawnshop — and then one day he looked saw a tray containing a Beta Beta fraternity pins, looked looked saw one with Beta Beta glintingly diamonds.

"Where did you get that Beta Beta fraternity pin?" he asked the broker after he had entered the dingy shop, and after explanation the pawnbroker showed the tray of discarded emblem.

"Loot," suggested Denslow.

"I dunno," said the pawnbroker. "They all came in in one lot. Twelve of them in all. Bought by a girl—nice kind of girl."

EARLY in his college days Denslow Harris had acquired the habit of looking into pawnshop windows. Then, as a newly initiated member of the Beta Beta fraternity, he had listened with admiring interest to an upper classman's account of having chanced to see a Beta Beta pin in a pawnbroker's window, and of going straightway into the shop to redeem the sacred emblem from remaining longer in its disgraceful plight. At the time Denslow felt an almost superstitious loyalty to the fraternity to which he had recently been initiated. He had hoped some day to be able to perform the knightly duty of buying a Beta Beta pin from a pawnshop.

And now Denslow Harris was thirty, never wore his pin, and had, in fact, actually forgotten what had become of it. Still, as if by second nature, he looked in pawnshop windows ture, he looked in pawnshop windows—and then one day he looked and saw a tray containing a number of fraternity pins, looked closely and saw one with Beta Beta gleaming in tiny diamonds.

"Where did you get that Beta Beta fraternity pin?" he asked the pawnbroker after he had entered the rather dingy shop, and after considerable explanation the pawnbroker produced

"Loot," suggested Denslow.

"I dunno," said the pawnbroker. "They all came in in one batch. Twelve of them in all. Brought in by a girl—nice kind of girl. How she came by them I dunno. But she never came back. Were you thinking of buying any one of them?"

Denslow indicated that he had a mild interest in the one set with mild interest in the one set with diamonds, and after a little dispute about the price, paid for it and left the shop. Outside the door he looked at the pin with renewed interest, turned it over, saw engraved his initials, D. H., and then re-entered the pawnshop.

"Have you any way of knowing the name—or address—of the young woman who pawned those pins?" he asked, but the pawnbroker with some confusion told his customer that he had not. "I'd know her if she came in again," he added, "and it usually happens that folks come back. They sort of get the habit."

“Well, if she comes back get her name and address, and if you have her right address I’ll give you ten more.”

And all that evening and far into the night Denslow Harris thought of Linda Pratt. For a brief interval, eight or nine years before, he had felt convinced that he could never for an hour of his life forget Linda Pratt but he had as a matter of fact not given her a single thought for four or five years. He had recalled on leaving the pawnbroker's that it was to Linda Pratt he had given his fraternity pin.

Adoring Linda Pratt had in the days of his rather brief infatuation amounted almost to an epidemic with the undergraduates at Denslow's college. Denslow could not remember the details of his infatuation. He had told her of his love, of course. They had all done that. Linda had accepted his pin but had given no encouragement—then Denslow had become only a memory. Once or twice he had heard about her—she had met with no sort of success later when she studied for the stage.

A few days later came a scrawled note from the publisher. The note from the pawnbroker. The lady had returned and her address could be had. So Denslow returned, gave the pawnbroker ten dollars and received the name of Linda Pratt and her address.

It was a demure little woman in a trim black frock who opened the door of a tiny apartment when Denslow called—an older, rather subdued Linda who seemed somehow smaller than the girl of his memory. But one glance told Denslow that she was still charming.

He sat with her in the unpretentious little living room. It had all been a mistake, she told him, thinking that she could be an actress. But she had worked hard and had not willingly accepted defeat. And after that she had had to start over again. Four years in normal school to prepare for teaching had followed. And then—all her resources exhausted—she had started teaching. That was three months ago. "That was when I learned the rope. I learned the ropes."

own the pins. I needed the money, to buy something to wear in the classroom. But now I'm rich," she said. "I'm earning more than I need. And so I went back to that loathsome pawnshop. But it was too late."

"You wanted to redeem the pins?" asked Denslow.

"One of the pins," said Linda. "But that was the one pin that had been sold. I never really cared for any of the others."

Denslow sitting beside Linda in the cheap little living room fumbled in his pocket for the pin. It had hardly occurred to him to wear it.

He placed it in Linda's hand. "You may have it back—" he said, feeling all the old fascination of Linda closing in about him.

And so began the second chapter in the romance of Denslow Harris and Linda Pratt. But when he announced to his old friends that he was about to be married to Linda he did not say that a pawbroker had served as a go-between.

GOOD COWS NEED SOME VACATION

"Through selection, feeding and breeding, Iowa's most progressive dairymen have developed high producing herds in which there are many cows that will milk continually throughout the year from one freshening to the next without a rest, unless their owners see to it that they receive a vacation," Mr. Oderkirk asserts.

Cows bred so as to freshen in the fall, when properly fed, will milk heavily through the winter and when put on grass will continue satisfactory production until hot weather arrives. They will then naturally go down in production and may be sold as cull cows.

The feed given good dry cows before freshening will be well paid for when the cow freshens. Hence, feed the dry cow so as to get her in good condition.

The owner of a cow which produced 10,584 pounds of milk and 542.6 pounds of butterfat last year was asked, "What is the cheapest and best form of food for dairy cows?"

Milk contains approximately 87 per cent water and if the cow does not have access to an unlimited supply of fresh, clean, palatable water, her milk flow is bound to suffer heavily. A high-producing cow will consume from 24 to 30 gallons of water per day. Cow
